On Wednesday I'm joining farmers, conservationists and Traditional Owners at the Santos AGM in Adelaide. Santos wants to turn the beautiful Pilliga forest into 850 coal seam gas wells, I'll be there to make sure their shareholders know the community doesn't support their polluting project.

The Pilliga forest, in our state's north-west, is the largest intact temperate eucalypt woodland in eastern Australia. It's habitat for threatened animals like the Pilliga mouse, koala and pygmy possum.

Yet the Santos CSG project would put half a million hectares of this traditional Gamilaraay country at risk to build 850 coal seam gas wells.

On Wednesday Santos' new CEO Kevin Gallagher will front up for his first AGM. He'll be judging if the project is worth the reputational risk to Santos.

Let's make sure he understands we want to protect NSW from their damaging coal seam gas project.

If you're in Sydney come along and join us outside the Santos office near Circular Quay to show your support for the conservationists, farmers and Traditional Owners who are opposing the project.

When: 10am – 12pm, Wednesday May 4th.

Where: Santos office, Cnr Reiby Place And Loftus St. One Block From Circular Quay (map here)

What: Hear from conservationists, farmers and Traditional Owners and support the campaign for a coal seam gas free NSW.

RSVP on Facebook here.

This project is far from a done deal. Santos is on the skids. Shares in the company have fallen dramatically in the past year, leaving its Pilliga project looking more dodgy than ever.

This is the final battle ground on coal seam gas in NSW. Let's make sure the new Santos CEO knows what a risky business this is.
